

Benefits of individual membership

Professional recognition

- Membership grade to suit your qualifications, experience and interests
- Professional recognition for suitably qualified members, including the use of designatory letters, (such as MEI for member of the Energy Institute)
- Engineering Council registration for engineers and unique EI titles of Chartered Energy Engineer and Chartered Petroleum Engineer
- Science Council registration for scientists
- Society for the Environment registration for environmentalists
- Chartered Energy Manager registration for energy managers
- Professional development services to enhance your career

Career development

- Membership of a Branch and Special Interest Groups of your choice
- Frequent networking opportunities through an extensive programme of national events - including annual dinners and industry awards, local Branch activities and Special Interest and Discussion Groups
- Chance to be selected to join the EI Research College and contribute to our annual Energy Barometer report (new for 2015)
- Opportunity to influence energy policy and exchange knowledge within the industry through government consultations
- Discounted rates to many Energy Institute conferences, seminars, other events and training courses
- Access to free advice and support to develop yourself and your career and access to online career information
- Free access to an online Professional Development System to help plan and structure your CPD
- Obtain exclusive information from the members only section of this website

Information services

- Free monthly magazine and discounts on other magazines, technical journals and publications, standards and other bespoke publications
- Access to over 85,000 energy information resources through the EI Energy Matrix, including our London library and Knovel and Ebsco information services. The collection includes books, journals, annual reports, conference proceedings and reports on all aspects of energy. For more information, please contact the Knowledge Service at e: info@energyinst.org or visit knowledge.energyinst.org
- Access to the EI's Data Sheets, a collection of current and historical statistics and information, covering energy prices, electricity production and petroleum fuels
- Energy Policy Milestones Calendar – a frequently updated resource providing links to current and forthcoming policy activity

Business services

- Access to central London meeting rooms with excellent modern facilities, including the latest audio-visual technology. Members are invited to hire the attractive rooms to hold conferences, workshops and meetings at discounted rates. For further information please click here
- Members can benefit from utilising the services of Tax Watchdog Ltd who provide a low cost, comprehensive self-assessment preparation service for a fixed fee of £79.95. For further information visit www.taxbuddies.com or contact Tax Watchdog, Freepost SK3110, Stockport, SK4 1YR.
- Access to discounted publications through www.BREbookshop.com an online service from the Building Research Establishment. It provides access to publishers catalogues in the built environment sector, allowing users to purchase books online from over 50 different publishers.
- Insurance services for members - working with Kingsbridge Professional Solutions (KPSol) a business insurance package designed specifically for contractors and freelancers operating through their own limited company is available.
<https://www.energyinst.org/membership/individual-membership/Insurance>